Hayley Cushman

Before starting with Hayden Royal, Hayley spent her first seven years out of college working as a financial manager with Johnson Lexus. Lexus has the motto of “The passionate pursuit of Perfection”, which was a great first corporate job experience for learning that superior client service is something to always strive for. Hayley then had the entrepreneurial spirit call her to open and run her own business for eight years in the fashion industry, opening her own women’s boutique in Raleigh, NC. Since she had experience being on the end of signing commercial leases for her boutiques, she decided to get her NC real estate license. After her boutique she decided to get back into the financial world and started working with Louis Dworsky and Hayden Royal. Since she started a business from ground up already, she really enjoys assisting Hayden Royal grow in the RIA market space. Hayley has her Series 65 license and provides support within multiple facets of the business whether it be operations, marketing, transitions or real estate.
