A message from our head financial advisor...

While learning to snowboard, a man in his 50's shared a ski lift with a teenager. Both wearing helmets (long before helmets were popular on the ski hill), the man was perplexed to see the young man wearing head protection.

"I know why I'm wearing a helmet, but why are you?"

Asked the man.

The young man smiled brightly. "So I can go big..."

There are parts of your financial plan that require a helmet. Take income for example - you never want to leave yourself exposed to not having enough income to provide for your living expenses. After your income needs are met, other financial tools can be used to "Go Big" to accomplish your investing goals...
