Are they safe or at the end of their 32-year super-cycle?

The potential end of the 32-Year Super Cycle in bonds as a result of synchronized global stimulus policies, and some indications of early stages of economic recovery should re-shift income oriented investors to individual bond holdings with set maturities. Read more...

Municipal Bonds

Unique Asset Class

Municipal bonds have for a long time offered investors a safe Investment Vehicle. The 10 year cumulative default rate on municipal bonds was 0.04% between 1970 and 2000. By comparison, the 10-year default rate for corporate bonds over the same period of time was 9.83%. Read more...
