

Our Values Guide the Journey

Owning a business is challenging. Most business owners understand what is required to grow their company, but the thought of going it alone, in terms of capital, expertise, execution, or pursuit of new strategies, may motivate them to seek a private equity partner.

We deeply understand the challenges and opportunities inherent in lower middle market companies, because we've spent decades collaborating with business owners and management teams to scale companies.

Yet, at Prairie Capital, how we get there is as important as the end result. Our style of partnership is borne out of a cohesive culture, unwavering ethics, an abiding sense of stewardship, and a shared feeling of accomplishment that is, in our experience, a lot of fun.
