About Us

QuantCore was established in 2012 with the goal of generating returns to investors through long-term compound growth. The company is research-centric and utilizes financial mathematics, engineering and physical sciences to develop proprietary trading systems for global securities markets. Our strengths are:

- ✓ Rigorous quantitative strategies backtested for years

- ✔ Fully automated strategies that eliminated human psychology
- ✔ Utilization of long and short positions for stable returns
- ✔ Bespoke investment services to meet clients individual needs

QuantCore offers financial advisory services and develops systematic trading algorithms which takes long or short positions in international futures and equity markets. Signals generated through our systems can be long- or short-term, as well as directional or mean-reversal. The company executes rigorously tested trading strategies that are designed to generate profits regardless of the prevalent market sentiment.
