

Energy Capital is a Houston-based private equity group focused on lower, mid-range opportunities in the energy industry. Outfitter targets control investments in North American onshore upstream and midstream sectors of the oil and gas industry. Investments in this segment offer the potential for attractive returns, but require a high level of diligence and expertise to uncover and manage. With individual experiences spanning decades in the energy industry, and a shared history of over ten years together as a team investing in this space, Outfitter has the track record and reputation that makes Outfitter an attractive partner for both investors and operators.
