

(<https://pollockplanning.com/>)

Welcome

Welcome, and thank you for visiting our website. Does it seem as though an advanced degree in economics is required to cut through the abundance of financial “noise” available on the Internet or in other media? Have you begun to feel that it’s time to get your financial “house” in order? Have you wondered whether all of the pieces of your particular financial plan work together...or whether you have one at all? Have you come to the realization that your situation has become sufficiently complex that there isn’t enough time to attend to all of your financial details?

Managing your personal finances today, let alone planning for what tomorrow may bring, may appear to be overwhelming, but it needn’t be. Comprehensive financial planning, once considered a luxury only afforded a select few, is available to those in all walks of life. We’re here to help you align your personal finances with your goals and values. We hope that, by taking the time to peruse our website, you’ll be sufficiently compelled to give us a call.

Please review Important Disclosure Information set forth in the About Us section of this website.