People and Approach

We love data and we have a lot of it. In fact we analyse and store terabytes of it every day. We use scientific and academic methods to find patterns in global financial and economic data, developing new strategies and continually improving our existing programs seeking to create value for our clients.

Community and Foundation

We haven't forgotten our roots – CFM is built on the scientific and technological methods taught in academic institutions across the world. We have set up the CFM Foundation and are proud to partner with universities and organisations to invest in the scientists of today and the breakthroughs of tomorrow in finance, engineering, medicine and in many other areas.
