

Prelude is a New York City based multi-manager hedge fund adviser with allocations in excess of $4 billion.

The firm manages capital for institutional investors in a highly diversified portfolio of investment strategies, asset classes and geographies directed by established hedge funds and individual portfolio managers.

Prelude's investment philosophy is centered around patience and risk management.

We both raise and deploy capital via long-term relationships designed to withstand the cyclical nature of different markets and strategies. Our innovative structure aims to isolate alpha for our investors and enables our underlying managers to receive a significantly higher than industry average performance fee in exchange for contributing a portion of subordinated risk capital.

At Prelude, we are firmly committed to the principle that the best investment we can make is in people.
