A FEW MORE WORDS ABOUT ASSET ALLOCATION

While an asset allocation plan can be a valuable tool to help reduce overall volatility, all investments involve risks, including possible loss of principal. Because these funds invest in underlying funds, which may engage in a variety of investment strategies involving certain risks, the Franklin NextStep Funds are subject to those same risks. In addition, shareholders of the NextStep Funds will indirectly bear the fees and expenses of the underlying funds. The risks described herein are the principal risks of the Franklin NextStep Funds and the underlying funds. Typically, the more aggressive the investment, or the greater the potential return, the more risk involved. Generally, investors should be comfortable with some fluctuation in the value of their investments, especially over the short term. Stock prices fluctuate, sometimes rapidly and dramatically, due to factors affecting individual companies, particular industries or sectors, or general market conditions. Bond prices generally move in the opposite direction of interest rates. Thus, as the prices of bonds in a fund adjust to a rise in interest rates, that fund's share price may decline. Foreign investing carries additional risks such as currency and market volatility and political or social instability; risks which are heightened in developing countries. Investments in derivatives involve costs and create economic leverage, which may result in significant volatility and cause the funds to participate in losses (as well as gains) that significantly exceed the funds' initial investment. These risks are described in the funds' prospectus. Investors should consult their financial advisor for help selecting the appropriate fund of funds, or fund combination, based on an evaluation of their investment objectives and risk tolerance.

Footnotes

FRANKLIN NEXTSTEP FUNDS began offering Advisor Class shares. Performance quotations for this class have been calculated as follows: (a) for periods prior to June 15, 2016, a restated figure is used based on the fund's Class A performance, excluding the effect of Class A's maximum initial sales charge but reflecting the effect of the Class A Rule 12b-1 fees, and (b) for periods after June 15, 2016, actual advisor class performance is used, reflecting all charges and fees applicable to that class.

For more information on any of our funds, contact your financial advisor or download a free prospectus (/content-common/prospectus/en_US/nextstep-prospectus.pdf). Investors should carefully consider a fund's investment goals, risks, sales charges and expenses before investing. The prospectus contains this and other information. Please read the prospectus carefully before investing or sending money.

Total Returns include change in share price, assume reinvestment of all distributions, and reflect the deduction of fund expenses and applicable fees. Total Returns With Sales Charge: returns reflect the deduction of the stated sales charge. Total returns, distribution rate, and yields reflect any applicable expense reductions, without which the results for those impacted funds would have been lower.

This site is not intended to provide any tax, legal, or investment advice and nothing on this site should be construed as a recommendation for any security, strategy, or asset class. You are solely responsible for determining the suitability of an investment or strategy.

The funds offer multiple share classes. Share classes are subject to different fees and expenses, which will affect their performance. In general, Class A shares have a maximum initial sales charge; Class C shares have a 1% contingent deferred sales charge.
